

MiM learned that sometimes the children just needed a toy or a candy or a prize or a sweet dream or a good story to cheer them up.

So MiM gazed down upon the Earth, scanning mountaintops so remote, they were hidden in clouds. There he found a grand toy maker to make the children toys, a regal rabbit to make them candy eggs, and a fairy from the kingdom of Punjam Hy Loo to leave prizes under their pillows. He even found a sleepy little fellow on a faraway sandy island who seemed to know all there was to know about dreams. And lastly, MiM brought the children of Earth a lovely lady who would tell them stories.
